Its Valuation as Shown by Counties for 1891 by the Bureau of Labor—What We Sold, and What It Added to Our Wealth -The Amount Per Capita.

The Missouri bureau of labor has published the following self-explanatory statement:

Numerous inquiries have been received by the bureau from various portions of the state for a statement of the amount of money received luring the year 1891, by each county, for the sale of her surplus commodities. For this rea-son the bureau of labor has decided to give the nformation to the public in advance of the reg-In the total for the state, the valuation of each s not only given, but the population, and also the amount received by each individual. The total amount of wealth added to our state, from the farm, forest and mines, during th year 1891, as shown by the table, is $126,001,757, which is $58.81 for every man, woman and child n our state. The total as shown from the table differs from the total as given on the statistical map recently issued by this depart ment by $052,4 2. This discrepancy occurs from he fact that on the map an average had to be placed upon the 46,779 car-loads of miscel aneous shipments, as there was not space on the map to itemize the numerous products while in making up the totals as they appear for each county in the table, each commodity has been given its proper value.

Several of the best counties in the state d ot show as large a surplus as they actually have, because they supply the large number of inmates and students in the eleemosynary in stitutions and schools located within them. There are eight counties in the state that have neither rail nor river shipping facilities hence they do not appear in this investigation

The surplus from the eight counties is shippe from stations in the adjoining counties, and they get credit for shipments that they are not entitled to: but this does not affect the tota for the state. Some commodities from the counties bordering on other states are probably taken out of Missouri and shipped, and we get no credit for it, but enough is driven in to offset this. Table showing value and shipments of sur plus commodities during year 1831:

leeting of the Executive Committee of the International Conference of State Boards of Health to Devise Methods to Prevent the Introduction of Cholera-General, Municipal and Domestic Precautions Suggested. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 27.-The executive committee of the international conference of state boards of health met in this city yesterday for the purpose of adopting immediate measures to prevent the introduction of cholera. The recommendation of Dr. McCormack, president of the conference, was adopted, contemplating the appointment of a quarantine inspection commission, for the purpose of examining all the quarantine stations on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, the Pacific being left to the California board of health.

The following physicians were apointed members of the commission: . N. McCormack, Bowling Green, Ky.; H. B. Baker, Lansing, Mich.: Irving Watson, Concord, N. H.; P. H. Brice, Toronto; J. R. L. Mine, Secramento, Cal.; Domingo Orvananos, City of Mexico, and either Joseph Holt or L. F. Salomon, of New Orleans, whichever can best afford the time.

This commission is called to meet in Toronto, Wednesday, August 31, and proceed thence to Quebec. The committee gave out the following prepared statement:

"It was voted that the quarantine inspection commission should act in concert with and secure the co-operation of the United States marine hospital service in the prosecution of their investigations; it being the purpose of this conference to unite and co-operate with all sanitary organizations on this continent in excluding cholera and in spread should it gain an

The national and local authorities have better sanitary arrangements than ever before; the laws are more practical and sanitary science has more resources than formerly. The chief sanitary inspector is directed to have old wells closed, privy vaults, school sinks, water closets, depressed yards, areas and roofs of tenements cleaned and disinfected. He is also directed to inspect all tenement cookeries thoroughly and have all sanitary defects repaired. An order is also issued to the steamship companies as to the disposal to be made of all was employed in making up a train at articles of clothing that may be suspected of containing germs of the disease. The order directs that such garments shall be destroyed.
